OCALA -- The U.S. Postal Service in Florida is getting a special delivery.

A mail vehicle is being touted as an electric personal carrier that's high tech, low cost, and could deliver savings to the post office.

The T3 has two big boxes on the sides and is outfitted to tow an extra spacious trailer.

With a top speed of 12 miles an hour, it can run close to 40 miles on a single charge.

The T3 costs $9,000 each. According to the postal service, it has the potential to lead the organization out of the red.

The vehicle is being tested in Ocala, Key West, Atlantic Beach and St. Augustine. If these trial runs go well, you could see them in your neighborhood soon.
